Training Points

One training point equals 20 hours of law enforcement training. Individuals receive training points from the Basic Academy course, in-service training, and may include outside training. College-affiliated training can be counted as "education" or "training" points, but not both. Training points cannot be substituted for education points (college units).

Education Points

Education points include college units from any accredited college and may include those units obtained through college-affiliated training/in-service training. If the college is on a semester system, each unit equals one education point. If the college is on a quarter system, multiply the number of units by 2/3 (.667) to calculate your education points. One education point (college unit) equals one training point. Education points (college units) can be substituted for training points.
